Notes

You can only vote in elections if your name is on the register of electors. We update the register every autumn. But, we can also add names throughout the year.

If you are a UK or commonwealth citizen, a citizen of the Irish Republic or of a European Union country - all you have to do is fill in a voter registration form. Each individual has to sign the form: someone else cannot do it for you.

When you send us your form we will add you to our list of new applications. Any elector can then object to your name being added to the register. If this happens we will write to you.

If your application is not objected to, we will change your details within 2 to 6 weeks of receiving your form. We will write to tell you when your application is allowed.

We will also tell the Electoral Registration Officer for your old address that you have moved, so that your name can be removed from that register (if necessary). People who live at two homes (including students) are allowed to register at both. If you do not want to be removed from your other address please explain why.

There are special rules about names being added to the voters list during an election period. Because of these rules you may not be able to vote at the elections if you are added during this time.

There are now two versions of the register: the full register and the edited register. You do not have a choice about your name and address being on the full register. But you can ask for your name to be omitted from the edited register

The full register

This version of the register shows the names and addresses of everyone registered to vote and is updated every month. Anyone can look at it, but copies can only be supplied for certain purposes, such as elections and law enforcement. Credit reference agencies are also allowed to buy the full register but can only use it to check your name and address if you are applying for credit, and to help stop "money laundering". Anyone who has a copy of the full register will be committing a criminal offence if they unlawfully pass on information from it. You do not have a choice about your name and address being on this register.

The edited register

This version of the register is available for general sale and can be used for any purpose. You can choose not to be on it. It will be kept separate from the full register and updated every month. The edited register can be bought by any person, company or organisation and could be used for different purposes such as checking your identity and commercial activities such as marketing.

Information Provided to the Electoral Registration Officer

It is an offence to provide false information to the Electoral Registration Officer when applying for registration. Anyone found guilty of such an offence is liable, on summary conviction, to a term of imprisonment of up to 51 weeks and/or a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale, currently £5,000.
