Review of Polling Districts, Polling Places and Polling Stations 2013

Introduction

Under the Representation of the People Act 1983, local authorities are required to divide their area into polling districts, to designate polling places for those polling districts and to keep their electoral arrangements under review.

The Electoral Administration Act 2006 introduced a duty for all polling districts and polling places to be reviewed every four years. The Council's first review was carried out in autumn 2007, followed by the second in autumn 2011.

Under the Electoral Registration and Administration Act 2013, local authorities are required to undertake a compulsory review of its polling districts and polling places in its area. The first compulsory review period begins with the 1st October 2013 and every fifth year after that.

Each polling district must offer reasonable facilities for voting for all its electors, as far as reasonably practicable in the circumstances.

Aim of the review

In conducting this review, the Council must seek to ensure that:-

- all electors in the constituency have such reasonable facilities for voting as are practicable in the circumstances;
- polling places are accessible to all electors and all sections of the community; and
- when considering or reviewing the designation of a polling place, have regard to the accessibility needs of disabled persons.

- The location of the polling station in each polling district
- The access to each polling station

Polling place: the building or area in which polling stations will be selected by the Returning Officer

Polling station: the room or building where the poll takes place. This is chosen by the Returning Officer for the election and is published on various official notices and communicated to the electorate via poll card.

What makes a suitable polling place?

It is important to consider what factors define a good polling place when submitting any suggestions. It is important that alternative premises are identified when suggesting a change in polling place.

A polling place should have, as a minimum, the following characteristics:

- 1) It should be central relative to the location of electors in the polling district, where possible.
- 2) Accessibility for all electors, including those with disabilities, where possible.
- 3) Adequate, safe parking for the size of the electorate. The car park (if any) and area around the station , should be well lit, as the station is open until 10:00pm
- 4) Facilities for polling staff, e.g. toilets, kitchen or coffee & tea making facilities, heating/cooling systems, comfortable adult sized chairs and tables.
- 5) The size of the room/building used as the polling station must be adequate for the size of the electorate.
